I totally support the recommended changes. We pay several hundred dollars more for a bottle simply because some manufacturer has placed a sticker on a bottle that they actually did not produce. In today's economy, that is funding that could be used elsewhere. It is a shame that when it comes to grants, that fire departments are forced to spend extra tax dollars to conform to a rule that simply has no merit. It amazes me that I am forced to buy a bottle with a vendors sticker on it, that is manufactured by a totally different company. Why can I not just simply buy the bottle from the folks that made it? A DOT approved bottle should just simply be a DOT approved bottle, regardless of stickers. As long as bottles pass inspection, they should be acceptable. Thanks for your time on this matter.
