I worked in _____ for about _____ years. For several of those years I worked in _____ in the _____ room. The smell of chemicals was very strong. It was my understanding that all the manufacturing employees of that area had to get blood tests every year, but even though I was sitting the same room as them I did not. When I asked my manager, he told me it was for manufacturing employees only and that it did not affect me. I had to have a _____ at _____ yrs old due to large fibroids.

Note: There was a girl that worked there who had several miscarriages. The next time she found out she was pregnant, so was sent to work in dept 639(sort). She had a baby, no problem.

I am not sure if any of this is pertinent to you but I thought I would send it anyway.
